PHARAOHS' GOLD

Documentary Series 4x45'

WHERE DID THE WEALTH OF THE RICHEST PHARAOHS IN HISTORY COME FROM?

In ancient Egypt, some pharaohs amassed colossal fortunes - still visible today in giant temples, lavish tombs, and priceless treasures.

How did these god-kings build their economic empires? Why did some become far richer than others? By examining wealth as a lens into power, the film uncovers the political, religious, and military mechanics behind one of the world's oldest centralized states.

Each episode focuses on a single pharaoh, starting with an estimate of their treasure and tracing the story of how their fortune was built. Satellite archival footage, 3D CGI, expert analysis, archaeological finds, and breathtaking locations guide this immersive journey into eternal Egypt.

SECRET TRACES OF EGYPT

Documentary Series 6x45'

A 3,000-YEAR JOURNEY TO THE HEART OF PHARAONIC ARCHITECTURE

To understand ancient Egypt, you have to follow the Nile. Along its sacred banks, the pharaohs built one of the greatest civilizations the world has ever known. Today, its legendary monuments still echo with the brilliance, belief, and power of a people like no other.

What do these temples, pyramids, and necropolises reveal? Who built them, and why here? Monument by monument, the film explores the meteoric rise of this civilization - its faith, its rulers, its divisions, and its architectural genius.

The series will draw on iconic archaeological sites, the latest academic research, 2D and 3D animations, breathtaking footage, and expert insights. Each episode will unpack a key site to shed light on the legacy of a people who set out to build for eternity.

Ep 1: The revelations of the Giza plateau / Ep 2: The incredible necropolis of Saqqara / Ep 3: The hidden treasures of the Valley of the Kings / Ep 4: The secret pharaohs of Fayum / Ep 5: The building genius of Ramses II / Ep 6: The revelation of ancient Alexandria

EGYPT'S ATLANTIS: TREASURES OF A SUNKEN CITY

Documentary Film 2x45' & 90'

AN ARCHAEOLOGICAL EPIC UNRAVELS
THE MYSTERIES OF EGYPT'S SUNKEN CITY

3,000 years ago, at the mouth of the Nile, stood a sumptuous, cosmopolitan and thriving port city: Thonis-Heracleion, symbol of the power and glory of ancient Egypt. Swallowed up by the waters of the Mediterranean in the 2nd century BC following a series of natural disasters, the city became a distant legend... until an exceptional discovery was made in the early 2000s.

In 2001, explorer Franck Goddio and his team brought archaeological remains to the surface of the Abu Qir Bay, including a two-meter stele. Since then, they have been exhuming treasures year after year - each more fascinating than the last. Today, we are embarking on one of the last expeditions of this prodigious mission.

With exclusive access to the current excavations, and thanks to the recent digitization of underwater archives and 3D reconstruction, this archaeological and scientific epic will bring this Egyptian Atlantis back to life and unravel its enduring mysteries.

THE PURSUIT OF KHUFU'S FUNERARY TREASURE

Documentary Film 52'

COULD THE FUNERARY TREASURE OF KHUFU
STILL BE LYING BENEATH THE GREAT PYRAMID?

Impressive and majestic, the Great Pyramid of Giza, the only one of the Seven Wonders of the World still standing, has towered over Egypt for centuries. But a mystery remains: this colossal pyramid appears to be empty. Neither King Khufu's mummy nor his treasure have ever been found.

After researchers claimed to have found an "underground city" 600 meters deep beneath the pyramids of Giza in March 2025, the question arises: Could the tomb of Khufu be hidden under the Great pyramid - built during his reign?

Following the course of the Nile with leading international experts, and retracing the steps of the most iconic pharaohs, we set out in search of the treasure of Khufu. We will explore the king's pyramid, its interior, and iconic tombs, with the idea of a hidden treasure in the background, whose contours and location will be discussed with archaeological and editorial rigor.

BABYLON: THE TOWER TO THE HEAVENS

Documentary Film 52' & 70'

UNCOVER THE ARCHITECTURAL FEAT BEHIND THE MYTHICAL TOWER OF BABEL

In the second millennium BCE, in the heart of Babylon, the most famous city from ancient Mesopotamia, King Hammurabi launched a colossal project: the construction of the Etemenanki ziggurat, a gigantic tower intended to link the world of men with that of the gods.

Spanning over a thousand years of construction, this monument was a triumph of architecture and engineering: 90 meters wide by 90 meters high, seven levels crowned with a temple of six chapels, and visible from dozens of kilometers away. A symbol of Babylon's power, the Etemenanki inspired the biblical tale of the Tower of Babel - and ultimately shared its tragic fate.

But where does the universal myth end, and where does historical truth begin? With the insights of international experts, and thanks to 3D modeling and AI-generated animations, this film attempts to unravel the secrets of the tallest tower in all Antiquity, and of the legendary megacity that raised it.

WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR: THE GREAT LANDING

Documentary Film 52'

RELIVE THE GREATEST LANDING IN MEDIEVAL HISTORY THAT CHANGED EUROPE'S DESTINY

In 1066, William, Duke of Normandy, launched the largest sea invasion of the Middle Ages in order to seize the English crown by force. This decision would trigger the greatest military invasion of the medieval world and change the course of European history forever.

How did William the Conqueror defeat his enemy and impose his rule on a foreign land? And how did this unique offensive lay the foundations for an all-powerful dynasty? At the heart of this monumental undertaking was his 40-meter-long flagship, the Mora, the centerpiece of an unprecedented fleet of 1,500 ships.

Through a combination of striking AI-generated historical reconstructions and the insights of experts, this film will bring to life a thousand-year-old story that redrew the map of Europe, and whose consequences still resonate today.

POST WWII: THE DISPLACED

Documentary Film 2x45' & 95'

BETWEEN RUINS AND REBIRTH, HOLOCAUST SURVIVORS TURNED EXILE INTO THE FRAGILE BEGINNING OF A NEW LIFE

In 1945, the liberation of the Nazi camps did not mean freedom. Hundreds of thousands of Holocaust survivors, unwilling or unable to return to their countries of origin, found themselves confined in DPC - displaced persons camps - often on the very soil of their former persecutors.

These places of waiting, marked by uncertainty and the world's indifference, nevertheless became centers of rebirth. Families were rebuilt, schools, newspapers, and theaters were created. Birth rates soared, cultural life thrived, and solidarity restored a sense of dignity to the survivors, preparing for new lives in Palestine, the United States, or elsewhere...

How does one learn to live again after extermination while antisemitism still raged? Drawing from rare archives and powerful testimonies, this documentary sheds light on a forgotten chapter of collective memory: the reconstruction of a people amid the ruins.

THE TRUE STORY OF PRIVATE RYAN

Documentary Film 52'

THE REAL AND UNTOLD STORY BEHIND SPIELBERG'S CLASSIC

In 1998, Spielberg's classic Saving Private Ryan was released in theaters. Its opening scene instantly became iconic: never before had the D-Day landings been depicted with such brutality, realism and closeness to the men plunged into the heart of chaos.

Behind this gripping fiction lies a true story, little-known to the public: that of four American brothers swept up by World War II - the Niland brothers. Their family tragedy, every bit as moving as the story imagined by Steven Spielberg, is entirely real - and in this reality, war surpasses fiction.

Through exclusive interview and personal archives from the Niland family, this documentary uncovers their story for the very first time. From their training at the Toccoa camps to the decisive battles in Normandy, we follow the fate of these four brothers - reliving key moments of world history along the way.

ELISABETTA SIRANI QUEEN OF THE BAROQUE

Documentary Film 52'

THE STORY OF A VIRTUOSA WHO BROKE BARRIERS FOR WOMEN IN ART

17th-century Bologna stood apart from other Italian cities by the place it allowed women in society, defying the conventions of the time. The city boasted three times as many professional women artists as either Rome or Venice, and twice as many as Florence. What's more, not all of them came from elite families. What made this sort of progress possible here, and not elsewhere?

At the time, one young Bolognese woman painter broke into a field long dominated by men: history painting - considered the most prestigious genre of all. Through technical skill, and a network of intellectuals and patrons, Elisabetta Sirani drew commissions from across Europe. A true pioneer who died prematurely at the young age of 27, her work - long overlooked - is now being brought back into the public eye.

Blending animation, rare archival material, and interviews with experts, this documentary reveals how a unique cultural setting and an extraordinary individual converged to challenge the social order and pave the way for women's emancipation.

ATOMIC LOVE: THE JOLIOT-CURIE STORY

Documentary Series 6x26' & 3x52'

THE GENIUS COUPLE WHO SECRETLY CREATED THE FRENCH ATOMIC BOMB

The story of the French atomic bomb is one of the Republic's best-kept secrets. Behind this epic story, which began with the discovery of artificial radioactivity and culminated in the dropping of the first French atomic bomb in Algeria, lies a couple of geniuses: Irène and Frédéric Joliot-Curie.

It's an extraordinary adventure, rarely told, spanning the tormented years between the wars, the Second World War and the Cold War, with its division of the world into two blocs. The story combines spectacular scientific discoveries, crucial military and geopolitical stakes, hopes, tragedies, secrets and the intimate wanderings of the couple behind this decisive breakthrough.

With its innovative direction - a mix of fictional sequences, archival sound recordings performed by actors, and a hybrid narrative featuring real/fake interviews with the Joliot-Curies - this series will reveal the dramatic tension at the heart of this visionary duo.

THE WALKMAN WAR

Documentary Film 52' & 70'

THE UNTOLD BATTLE BEHIND THE DEVICE THAT CHANGED MUSIC FOREVER

In the early 1970s, moving between São Paulo, Milan, London, and Germany, Andreas Pavel invented the Stereobelt, the world's first personal stereo player. When the Japanese company Sony began selling its famous Walkman in 1979, a 20-year legal battle broke out between this unknown inventor and one of the most powerful electronics multinationals.

During this astounding trial, Pavel defended the perspective of someone who had achieved his vision - in which a device freed humanity to listen to music anywhere and anytime - nearly ten years before Sony introduced the Walkman. How did this unknown man, who claimed he was dispossessed by the multinational, successfully assert his rights?

Pavel looks back at this little-known battle, and gives us access to his personal archives. Now freed of their duty of confidentiality, the lawyers who were involved reveal what truly happened behind the scenes. In exploring this extraordinary case of a modern David vs. Goliath - a complex affair full of twists and turns - the film focuses on the true origin of an invention that revolutionized our relation to music.

ON THE HIPPIE TRAIL

Documentary Film 52'

LOOKING BACK ON THE ULTIMATE JOURNEY OF AN ICONIC ERA THAT SHAPED A GENERATION

Between the mid-1950s and the late 1970s, hundreds of thousands of young Westerners set off by car, bus or even hitchhiking, on a 6,000-kilometer journey to Kathmandu. Belonging to the last generation of the baby boom, these backpackers longed to leave behind their parents' world, dominated by consumerism, colonialism, and the looming shadow of war.

This phenomenon, later dubbed the "Hippie Trail", was unprecedented: never before had so many people travelled solely in search of adventure, self-discovery and encounters with others. Far from being limited to the hippie movement alone, this odyssey was a complex, collective and intercultural experience - one that sheds new light on key moments in contemporary history.

Based on an exceptional trove of personal archives - Super 8 films, photographs, travel diaries, and more -, this documentary retraces the journey between Europe and Nepal, as seen through the eyes of those who made the journey. A compelling story that revisits one of the 20th century's most fascinating utopias, and its clash with historical reality.

ANCIENT BLING

Documentary Film 52' & 90' 4K

THE MAJOR DISCOVERY OF THE WORLD'S OLDEST JEWELRY RAISES QUESTIONS ABOUT OUR ORIGINS

In a lost cave in southern Morocco, a team of scientists has uncovered what could be the oldest piece of jewelry known to humanity. These tiny perforated shells, decorated and worn as adornments 150,000 years ago, are revolutionizing our understanding of the emergence of symbols, art, and culture in Homo sapiens.

These ornaments may well constitute the first tangible evidence of symbolic behavior, challenging our assumptions and potentially repositioning North Africa as a central cradle of human innovation in Prehistory. Through ongoing excavations, we follow the trail of a major archaeological discovery, revealing how a modest artifact can overturn an entire narrative about our origins.

Through immersive storytelling, CGI reconstructions, and a deep dive into the gestures of the earliest makers of symbolic objects, we reveal how these marine beads bear witness to the very first forms of abstract thought, social communication, and identity.

MEDITERRANEAN MEGASTRUCTURES

Documentary Series 3x60'

EXPLORING THREE MEDITERRANEAN MARVELS OF ENGINEERING

The Mediterranean basin is home to some of France's most remarkable feats of engineering, including the Marseille canal winding through Provence, the 2,000-kilometers of sewers running below the city, and the mythical "Autoroute du Soleil" (Highway of the Sun) connecting Paris and Marseille, used by 80 million vehicles per year.

How were these megastructures designed and built? What challenges did the engineers of the past have to face? How are today's engineers reinventing these structures in light of future challenges?

Combining 3D imagery, expert insight, and on-site footage of colossal infrastructure, the series reveals the hidden stories and inner workings of the extraordinary constructions that shape the Mediterranean area.

Documentary Film 52' & 70'

THE WORLD'S GREATEST CULTURAL MEGASTRUCTURE IS ON THE BRINK OF CHANGE

Today, in the global spotlight following its spectacular theft, the Louvre Museum must reinvent itself more than ever. The museum has built its immensity on a history of metamorphoses. And today, it plans to evolve through a colossal project, "Louvre Renaissance" which will begin in 2026 to welcome even more visitors in 2031.

How did the Louvre become the largest museum in the world? And how will it remain so thanks to its dizzying transformation?

With a highly refined visual approach, this project is both an exploration of what the Louvre is and will be, and a captivating detour through its collections. With the help of international experts and key figures who keep the Louvre running, we will take a leap between the present, the future of the Louvre, and its past heritage. CIA: INSIDE THE AFTERMATH OF 9/11

AFTER THE SHOCK OF 9/11, THE CIA WAS PERMANENTLY RESHAPED TO ELIMINATE THE TERRORIST THREAT, AT ANY COST

September 11, 2001: the first attack on American soil since Pearl Harbor. In its aftermath, the CIA - tasked by the White House with leading the response - transformed into a paramilitary outfit with an unprecedented mandate: eliminate the terrorist threat by any means necessary.

From the lightning-fast invasion of Afghanistan (2001) to the Taliban's humiliating return (2021), from the killing of Bin Laden (2011) to the rise of ISIS (2014)... Former spies, officers, analysts, and directors of the world's largest intelligence agency break their silence and reveal the inner workings of this secret war.

Through rare and sometimes never-before-heard accounts from American intelligence figures in particular, we'll plunge into the covert operations that shook the US foundations. It'll show how the quest for security tipped us into a new era. Let's enter the backstage of a realm steeped in secrets and contradictions.

HOSTAGES IN LEBANON: WHO PULLED THE STRINGS?

Documentary Series 4x52'

IRAN'S HOSTAGE-TAKING STRATEGY TO OBTAIN THE ATOMIC BOMB

When Ayatollah Khomeini came to power in 1979, Iran was cast out of the international community: its nuclear program was shut down, its assets frozen, and Western nations distanced themselves. As a response, Iran organized the kidnapping in Beirut of Western nationals with the help of its Lebanese allies.

Held captive, and tortured for years, the hostages became leverage in a shadow war that mobilized every Western intelligence service. The series explores how Iran manipulated these abductions to gain advantage at the negotiating table.

Through personal accounts of hostages, rare testimonies from intelligence officers, and unseen archives, the series retraces four major hostage cases. It offers a clear, immersive dive into the geopolitics of the 1980s to date, revealing the hidden mechanisms of a conflict shaped by Iran.

EUROPE AWAKENS

Documentary Series 3x45'

EUROPE BELIEVED IT HAD BANISHED WAR FROM ITS HORIZON BUT MUST ONCE AGAIN THINK OF ITSELF AS A POWER

Thirty-five years after the euphoria of 1989 and the promise of perpetual peace founded on trade, Europe is discovering that it must once again think of itself as a power. The invasion of Ukraine, the return of Russian imperial logic, and the American shift have shattered the illusion of a Europe protected by History.

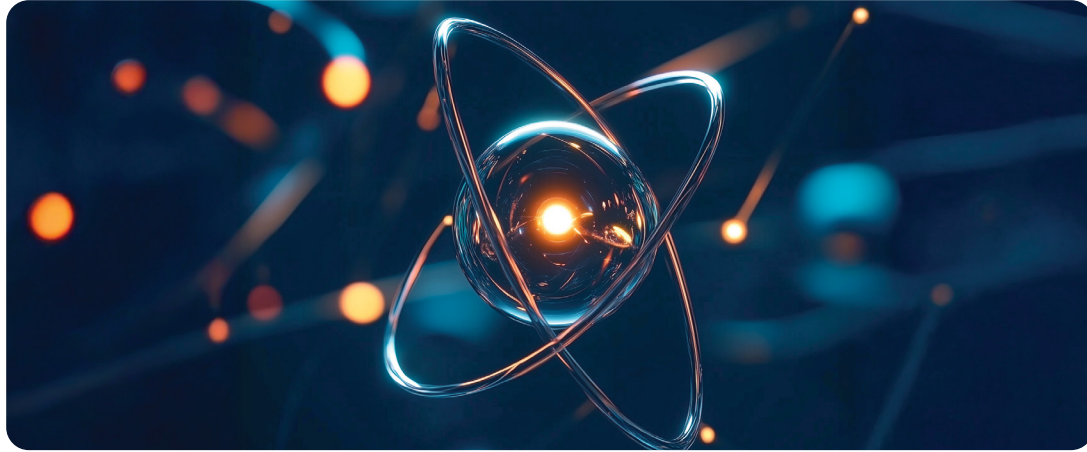

From the end of the Cold War to the shock of 2022, the series explores a geopolitical transformation long postponed - strategic dependence on NATO, fractures between East and West, and the shift of Europe's beating heart toward its eastern flank. What does Europe now seek to defend? At what democratic, industrial, and political cost can it become a sovereign military power?

Drawing on major archives, testimony from political, diplomatic, and military decision-makers, and analysis by European experts, this documentary series retraces the continent's geopolitical awakening and examines a moment of truth - the moment when Europe must choose between becoming an actor or once again becoming a battlefield.

CHASING HYDROGEN

Documentary Film 52' 4K

IS NATURAL HYDROGEN REALLY THE ENERGY OF THE FUTURE?

Over the past few years, hydrogen has become a real social issue, with more and more reports on the subject and its use spreading in both transport and aerospace. But while its industrial production comes at the cost of heavy pollution, the discovery of natural hydrogen reservoirs around the world is raising hopes of an energy transition away from fossil fuels.

But what do we really know about this gas? What role does it play in the cycle of life? Is it a finite or renewable resource? Sometimes described as a miracle solution to the climate crisis, sometimes as an ecological mirage, natural hydrogen is above all a mystery, for the general public and researchers alike.

The race is on to expand our knowledge on hydrogen, before the industry gets hold of it. Current scientific missions promise a better understanding of our planet's mechanisms, at a time when it is crucial to reconcile the exploitation of resources with the preservation of living organisms.

XENOGRAFTS: THE FUTURE OF SCIENCE?

Documentary Film 52' 4K

WITH THE LACK OF DONORS, XENOTRANSPLANTATION CAN BE A SOLUTION TO SAVE MORE HUMAN LIVES

In 2022, surgeons at the University of Maryland Medical School achieved a medical miracle with the first successful transplant of a heart from a genetically modified pig into a man with incurable heart disease. Three years later, a woman - Towana Looney - broke records by becoming the first recipient of a pig kidney to live for more than two months.

Faced with a lack of donors, science is now considering transplanting an animal organ into a human. The risks of rejection and infection are among the many scientific challenges to be overcome. Other essential questions arise: Where is the ethical limit on manipulating the boundaries between humans and animals? Does the future of xenografts lie in breeding genetically modified pigs, or in growing human organs in pig bodies? What would be the consequences for the pig graft market?

In the USA, over 100,000 patients are currently waiting for an organ transplant. Every day in Europe, 18 patients who are candidates for organ transplants die for lack of donor organs. This scientific investigation reveals the inner workings of these medical advances, with their considerable ethical, human and economic consequences.

FORGET HOMO SAPIENS: MAYBE WE ACTUALLY ARE HOMO FICTIONUS?

From cave paintings to contemporary blockbusters via mythology, telling stories has always been a fundamental part of our humanity. But why exactly do we love stories so much?

Today, neurologists, psychologists and historians are opening up exciting avenues of research on the subject. Whether listening to a podcast, watching a movie or contemplating a painting, stories exert a profound impact on our brains and emotions. What's more, they have played a decisive role in the evolution of our species! Some specialists claim they helped us emerge from prehistoric caves and forge societies.

Alongside international experts, we'll examine the profound and complex transformations that fiction can bring about in us, proving that humans are true storytellers.

CUTE BUT FEROCIOUS, THE ALPINE MARMOTS ENGAGE IN A MERCILESS TERRITORIAL BATTLE

Who would have thought that Alpine marmots, those sweet bundles of fluff, had a penchant for killing each other with teeth and stones? Yet this is precisely what unfolds in the breathtaking, though far from peaceful, Alpine landscapes where, for thousands of years, marmots have waged a ruthless clan war. Duels, beheadings, infanticide, adultery... These rodents will stop at nothing to assert their dominance over a burrow and its surrounding territory!

But today, with the acceleration of climate change, internecine conflicts are erupting within the clans themselves - threatening the very survival of this iconic Alpine species.

In a protected reserve at the heart of the Vanoise National Park, researchers are closely monitoring the rivalries that have pitted these fierce warriors against each other for generations. This documentary takes us deep into the world of the Alpine marmot - a paradoxical animal, as endearing as it is ferocious - while raising urgent questions about the future of the species in a rapidly changing environment.

A JOURNEY INTO THE AMAZON IN SEARCH OF A GIANT RAPTOR

The harpy eagle is one of the largest and most powerful raptors in the South American rainforest. This majestic species plays a key role in maintaining the balance of an entire ecosystem by regulating its prey population. Today, its protection has become a major challenge, as humans - its only predator - have devastated its habitat.

Christine Morrier, a renowned zoologist, travels to Ecuador to meet Ruth Muñiz, a leading specialist in birds of prey. United by the same hope of observing this elusive bird of prey up close, and alerted by activity detected in a monitored nest, the two women set out on an expedition into the heart of the Amazon rainforest.

Alongside them, we follow the trail of the enigmatic harpy eagle, discovering an environment that is both rich and fragile. Along the way, we will meet the communities working to protect this species - a true living symbol of the forest and the wild.

BEAVERS: HEALERS OF RIVERS

Documentary Film 52'

WHEN BEAVER INGENUITY LEADS THE WAY TO RESTORE ECOSYSTEMS

When a beaver couple made their home in a river, below an experimental farm perched atop a dry mountain in the Drôme department of France, the agronomist and farmer Marco Forconi saw it as a tremendous opportunity for bio-inspiration. He and his partners decided to give the plot of land over to the two rodents. The result? A cool and humid haven spread around the river, with no human or financial contribution.

Could beavers hold the key to restoring the valley's ecosystems by creating new branches between waterways?

But after their dams upstream were destroyed, the rodent couple disappeared. Determined to have them return, Marco set out to investigate with scientists, rural communities, and environmental actors. His goal was to learn how to "cultivate water" like beavers, and to mobilize the entire Drôme drainage basin as part of a citizenled movement for their return.

AN INDIGENOUS LEADER'S FIGHT TO SAVE THE AMAZON

In November 2025, at COP30 in Belém, the last great Kayapo chief Raoni Metuktire raised his voice once more against the dangers facing the Amazon rainforest and its peoples.

In Brazil, where deforestation advances at a brutal pace, the Xingu reserve still endures. As vast as the state of Florida, it shelters unique biodiversity and a mosaic of Indigenous cultures. For generations, the Kayapo have defended this land with all their strength. For the past 50 years, Raoni has been the voice of their struggle. He has traveled the world to sound the alarm about a catastrophe the West long refused to acknowledge. Able to unite Indigenous peoples and engage with the world's powerful leaders, he has become a symbol of awakening to a crisis that is urgent and undeniable. Today, a new generation of Kayapo activists is taking up the torch by fighting fires, guarding the forest's borders, and engaging in an increasingly strategic political struggle. Their presence on the ground continues Raoni's fight and shows that resistance will not disappear with him.

This film will follow the Amazonian chief on a final journey across the Xingu River, to the Kuarup, a sacred ceremony honoring the spirits of the ancestors. Imagined as a visual and sensory odyssey - blending immersive footage, rare archival material, and Kayapo myths - it tells the story of Raoni's life and his fight to protect the living world, carrying his voice into the tumult of our times.
